ACIG Webinars

In pursuit of improving our communications with our members and their agent/broker, ACIG is embracing the Webinar Technology. From time to time, we have the need to communicate detailed topics and the Webinar format allows for a consistent message to be delivered to all the stakeholders. We have developed Best Practices for delivering an effective Webinar and ask for your suggestions on how we can improve the process.

We presented “Commercial General Liability Coverage Modifications Disclosure and Remedial Action Plan” via Webinars on December 10th and 17th.

ACIG Contractors in the News

McGraw-Hill Construction's second annual Best of the Best Awards, recognizing excellence in design and construction projects completed in 2009 included two (2) ACIG members:

Kitchell Construction Company of Arizona for the Phoenix Children's Hospital Expansion. This 11-story expansion included a constricted site adjacent to an existing hospital. Schuff Steel was awarded the steel subcontract, which included 5,600 tons of steel and more than 765,000 sq. ft. of steel decking.

Weitz/DPR Joint Venture completed the Scripps Florida laboratory project for the Scripps Research Institute. This project has an interesting story line. Four (4) months into construction, a federal judge shut down the facilities original site due to permitting issues. This forced the entire project team to relocate, redesign, re-price and restart the project. In spite of the early setbacks, the Weitz/DPR Joint Venture completed the project six (6) weeks ahead of schedule and within the original Guaranteed Maximum Price budget using a Zero Punchlist quality process and Lean Construction principles.

William Charles, Ltd. was recognized as the number one finalist for the Gary Bird Horizon Award presented by the International Risk Management Institute (IRMI) at its annual Construction Risk Conference. The award is presented annually to recognize commitment to improving construction Risk Management. The award is named in honor of Gary Bird, a nationally known Risk Management expert who was killed in the terrorist attacks on the World Trade Center on September 11, 2001.

Doug Pitcock, CEO of Williams Brothers Construction Co., Inc. spoke at the White House Jobs Summit. Leaders from business, labor and state and local government were invited to attend. Doug, who is an AGC past President, served as AGC's representative. He made the point that construction projects have the dual benefit of creating jobs in the short term and providing long-term economic benefits by producing assets that will be here for future generations.

Concluding Thoughts

In a year of extraordinary and unprecedented challenges faced by the country and the Construction Industry, it is important to reflect on all we have achieved in spite of significant headwinds, while at the same time acknowledging the battles are far from won and much work remains.

ACIG members were able to achieve meaningful reductions in their PLS Reportable claims in spite of a very difficult construction employment market.

ACIG members continue to support the programs that have contributed to the overall success of ACIG, including the Best Practices Session, PLS Contractor meetings, Safety/Claims Workshops, Quality Peer Group meetings, Root Cause Accident Investigation training, the In-House Legal Counsel Forum and ACIG University.

Even in these challenging times, ACIG's value proposition continues to resonate with companies seeking a Risk Management partner. We were pleased to welcome SpawGlass to our membership in 2009.

While we have been very successful in a number of fronts in 2009, clearly many challenges lie ahead. The economic context we face will continue to be extraordinarily challenging, but ACIG and its members are ready to bring all of their resources to bear to advance our mission of "Saving lives, preventing injuries and reducing the overall cost of risk for our Shareholders."

All the best,

President
